Toner Traditions of the Joseon Dynasty

Migamsu (Rice Water)

Migamsu, meaning rice-rinse water, was widely used for facial cleansing thanks to its excellent moisturizing and brightening effects.

Jodu (Grain Powder Wash)

Powder made by finely grinding grains such as soybeans, red beans, and mung beans was mixed with water. The natural saponin content created a gentle foam, effectively cleansing the skin and leaving it smooth.

Namtang (Orchid Infusion)

Orchids were steeped in water and used as a facial wash, adding a delicate touch of refinement to skincare.
